

Insurance

The USDA's Farm Service Agency \(FSA\) provides credit assistance, food aid and conservation incentives to help stabilize farm incomes and provide disaster assistance. The USDA has local service centers around the country that help farmers navigate their way through a mirad of federal assistance programs. To find a local service center, go to <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/edso>. Under the heading Local Service Centers, click on "Locate the service center closest to you"

The USDA's Risk Management Agency \(RMA\) provides crop insurance through a variety of approved insurance providers. The agency's website provides an overview of various insurance policies. To speak with a authorized agent, go to the RMA homepage and on the left-hand navigation bar, click on Agent Locator. The regional RMA office in Valdosta Georgia covers Florida. From the RMA homepage, click on field offices on the left hand navigation bar to find it on your own.

The Florida Farm Bureau members are eligible for insurance through Florida Farm Bureau Insurance.

The Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) is an Equal Employment Opportunity - Affirmative Action Employer authorized to provide research, educational information and other services only to individuals and institutions that function without regard to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations. For information on obtaining other extension publications, contact your county Cooperative Extension Service office.

Florida Cooperative Extension Service / Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences / University of Florida / Larry R. Arrington, Dean